RoHS Compliance Statement

The European Union (EU), in an effort to protect human health and reduce environmental pollution, has published a new directive (EU) 2015/863 amending Annex II to RoHS Directive 2011/65/EU of the European Parliament and of the Council of 8 June 2011 on the restriction of the use of certain hazardous substances in electrical and electronic equipment to restrict the use of:

- Lead (Pb)
- Cadmium (Cd)
- Mercury (Hg)
- Hexavalent Chromium
- Polybrominated Diphenyl Ether (PBDE)
- Polybrominated Biphenyl (PBB)
- Bis (2-ethylhexyl) Phthalate (DEHP)
- Butyl Benzyl Phthalate (BPP)
- Dibutyl Phthalate (DBP)
- Diisobutyl Phthalate (DIBP)

The Directive states that member countries of the European Union Council shall insure that new equipment sold after 21 July 2011 is compliant with RoHS directive.

Sienna Technologies, Inc. would like to state that the aluminum nitride ceramic products manufactured by us are compliant under the EU RoHS Directive.
